Did You Know?

Up to 11,000 children in the Green Bay public school district have limited access to which of the following?

- A. Transportation
- B. After-school activities
- C. Dental care

The answer is C, "Dental care". Brown County United Way's Emerging Leaders Society will be holding a panel presentation and discussion about this pressing need in our community.

To learn more, please join us at the Green Bay Country Club, April 14, 2005 from 5:00 - 7:00pm. A panel presentation will begin at 5:45pm. Watch for more information, or to RSVP, contact Brown County United Way at 432-3393.

Intern Spotlight

Lexie Hassinger is the Communications Design Intern at the Brown County United Way. She is a senior at the University of Wisconsin - Green Bay. She will be graduating this coming May with a photography major and a graphic design minor. Keeping herself very busy, along with the internship at the United Way, she also holds an internship through UWGB's art program, and is also very involved with the school's Art Agency. She has also worked at the Weidner Center's ticket office for the last three and a half years.

Lexie grew up in the town of Elkhart Lake, Wisconsin. She spends her free time working on the pieces for her Senior Exhibition at the end of this semester, and doing freelance design projects for friends and family.

Volunteer Spotlight

Born and raised in De Pere, Pat is the youngest of four siblings. Pat tries to strike a balance in his life between family, work, and giving back to the community. He says, "I believe that giving back to the community where you live is an important aspect of a strong healthy community."

Pat was the 2004 United Way "loaned employee" for his employer Wisconsin Public Service Resources Corporation. He currently serves as the chair for the newly created Community Access and Resources Impact Council, serves on a council with the Lac Baie Girl Scouts, and is a member of the Advisory Board for Northeast Wisconsin Technical College Supervisory Management program. Pat has been with WPS for over 18 years.

Pat and his wife Lori have 3 children. They spend most of their family time together close to the water or at a nearby cottage on the bay of Green Bay.

Pat's philosophy is, "As the youngest of four I always observed my parents giving back to the community, and I feel a real passion to be able to help out and show my children by example the importance of giving back to the community."
